GERMAN MAGNATE TRANSPORT SUNK DEFENDS TARIFF BY EXPLOSION

Theodore Ritter of Hamburg American Line also Points to Critical Shipping Conditions and German Inability to Extend Long Credits

(By United Press)

New York, October 7.—Director Theodore Ritter of the Hamburg-American Line on a visit here today declared, when interviewed by a member of the United Press that "It would be deplorable if the South American countries should consider retaliatory tactics against the German tariff policy. It must be realized that after the war Germany withdrew all tariff measures in order to obtain food, particularly meats from Argentina. Germany is now able to provide her own meats and grains to a certain extent, hence it is for the protection of German agriculturists that the tariffs be renewed. This is but a normal effort any nation would take to make it self-sustaining as far as possible and reflects in no wise against the nations who for a brief period enjoyed tariff immunity."

He pointed out that world wide shipping conditions are such as to make retrenchment the necessary policy rather than expansion, and added that there are prospects for improvement only if world wide trade increases sufficiently to justify the tonnage afloat. The alternative is to withdraw all surplus tonnage. German trade is suffering from Germany's inability to extend long credits as before the war, he said, and the insistence of creditors to receive cash instead of German products. Loans are merely a temporary help since the interest consumes the meagre profits, but restored trade will result in a cash balance to enable Germany to recover her world position.

Suspicion of Time Bomb Proved Unfounded.

(By United Press)

Paris, Oct. 7th.—The transport Saint Brieux loaded with shells, bombs and other munitions destined for the French troops in Morocco, exploded at the Bassens docks, Bordeaux at one o'clock this afternoon.

The Minister of Marine has ordered an immediate investigation. It is charged that the explosion was due to a time bomb placed aboard by a communist during the loading of the vessel.

According to later reports it has been ascertained that the explosion was caused by the bursting of an oxygen tank. Four members of the crew were injured.

CONSERVATIVES URGE MEASURES TO EXCLUDE REDS

Comment of the British Press on Proposals Advanced by Lloyd George

(By United Press)

Brighton, Oct. 7th.—The Conservative Party's annual three days convention opened here at 10 o'clock this morning. The program is largely devoted to plans for ridding England of communism. There were approximately 2,000 delegates including Premier Baldwin who speaks on Thursday night, and most of the cabinet members.

The Conservatives Executive Council Report, declares that the "presence of admitted revolutionaries in our midst is a danger out of all proportion to their number. While we must not fall into the error of identifying them with the mass of our fellow countrymen, it would be foolish to ignore them." The report recommends an active counter propaganda.

FRANCO - SPANISH DRIVE CONTINUES DESPITE WEATHER

Rain and Mud Fail to Hold up Cavalry. Submission of Tribes Continues. American Aviators Praised by Sadi Lecointe.

(By United Press)

FEZ, Oct. 7th.—The French and Spanish cavalry brigades have effected a junction at Sillahsone east of Syah. Two French cavalry divisions advanced through Metalsa territory, and the infantry occupied a definite objective line from Mount Nador to Mount Braet.

The submission of the tribes in the western sector continues rapidly and the region around Ouezan has been practically cleared of Rifians. As a result of the maneuvers of the past few days, the French troops are now in control of three of the four important roads into Ajdir. This capital is of important business because its utilization will facilitate the maintenance of communication between the French and Spanish forces north of Kiffane. It is probable now that even if the rains cut the communications in the South. The French and Spanish troops can be fed from Melilla, Ajdir or across the Algiers frontier.

General Petain is now in Taza personally studying the communications problem in that sector.

TAZA, Oct. 7th.—Despite the heavy rainfall and muddy ground the French and Spanish cavalry have undertaken operations which preclude a general advance through the territory of Metalsa and Tuba east of the region where the infantry at Kiffane has occupied a definite line.

A brigade of cavalry left Hassi Ouennza in a thick fog and occupied about seven miles to the west. Another brigade from Hassi Medlem occupied the peak of Matizra eight miles westward which it is organizing as a base. An advance of native cavalry reached the foothills of Taagrout range and a Spanish cavalry brigade from Syah rode eastward joining the French from Hassi Muenaga at Sillahsone in the eastern Spanish zone.

The infantry divisions from Kiffane occupied Mount Nador and Braet which were previously cleared by a detachment of native cavalry with but little resistance. The main army is now encamped on the watershed overlooking the Riffs. Further progress depends largely on the weather.

LOCARNO CONFERENCE CONTINUES STUDY OF RHINELAND PEACE PACT

Success of Negotiations Hampered by Premature Disclosure of Proposal. Ludendorff Declares Conference Presents New Danger to Germany

(By United Press)

Locarno, October 7.—The Rhineland Pact may take on the principal features of the Geneva protocol it was indicated at this afternoon's session of the foreign ministers. It is understood that a proposal has been made for compulsory arbitration of the cause of all disputes, aggression being on the part of the nation refusing to arbitrate. This would settle one of the most difficult points of the pact to date, namely the establishment of two is the aggressor. The suggestion has been referred to the jurists for a supplementary report.

The conference was in session for only an hour receiving the final draft of the jurist's report which will be studied by each delegation until the meeting on Thursday afternoon. Ex-premier Briand lunched with ex-chancellor Luther and discussed the entire European political situation. Both afterwards appeared optimistic over the possibility of an agreement. Benes arrived today and Skrzynski is due to arrive on Thursday.

Locarno, October 7.—The conference survived its first threatened rupture today when as a result of the intervention of the Italian delegation, the Milan papers refrained from publishing the text of the draft of the projected Rhineland Pact, which admittedly would have placed the French and German delegations in the most critical position. The threat to publish the article was due to Vanderveede's curt denial of Popolodi's, of the Italian Delegation, declaration that Belgium is seeking to re-establish her pre-war neutrality instead of a continuance of the present Franco-Belgian military alliance.

Berlin, October 7.—It is reported from Munich that General Ludendorff addressing the ex-officers this afternoon declared that the Locarno conference presents a new danger to Germany "especially after our enemies have refused to reconsider the war guilt lie." He said that the pact and Germany's proposed entry into the League of Nations would fasten fresh chains on the Fatherland.

Berlin, October 7.—Following the sensational pact disclosures in the Italian Press the German correspondents report from Locarno that the conference secrets are being peddled on the streets. The Vossische Zeitung correspondent claims that he declined an offer of an authentic draft of the pact for a price of two hundred dollars. He says that the new papermen have agreed to avoid indiscretions but intend to send an ultimatum to the conference demanding easier access to sources of information.

FALL OF FRANC ALARMS FRENCH

Government Threatens to Prosecute Speculators.

(By United Press)

Paris, October 7.—Spurred by the rapid depreciation of the franc following the breaking off of the negotiations for the payment of the French war debt to the United States and after a long period of comparative stability, the Government announced its intention to combat speculators by maneuvering the funds made available by the Morgan loan, which is still intact. It was also announced that since the stability of the franc is indispensable to normal commercial and industrial development, the Government will prosecute speculators and impose the severest penalties.

LAND REFORM IN ENGLAND

(By United Press)

London, October 7.—The press comments from a partisan angle on Lloyd George's land reform program, embodied in a voluminous report compiled by a Liberal committee after two years' investigation and outlined in Lloyd George's recent Kill no speech. The Laborite "Herald" accuses Lloyd George of turning socialist and stealing the Labor Party's fire. The Liberal "Manchester Guardian" acclaims the program as a great public service and expresses the hope that the nationalization of land tax on them no longer be considered as a disreputable. The "Telegraph" considers the program is ruinous, complete revolution and of doubtful value vote getter.

TARIFF BARRIERS

The Interparliamentary Union at its final meeting in Washington adopted a resolution directed against tariff barriers, which, if it were effective, would do more for the peace and prosperity of the world than all the acts of all the legislators of the past hundred years.

Artificial obstacles to intercourse and trade in this age, when distance has been all but annihilated, and China and Peru, cited by Pope as synonyms for the opposite ends of the earth, have become almost neighbors,
are peculiarly vexatious.

It should be obvious that the unprecedented commercial and industrial prosperity of the United States is attributable to the fact that, due to a series of fortunate political accidents, almost a whole continent is under one fiscal and political jurisdiction. If, as might easily have happened, there were three nations occupying this area instead of one, each seeking to erect barriers against the exports of the other two, ostensibly for the protection of its own industries or even for revenue only, it is inconceivable that the combined wealth of these three separate states would even approximate that of the one great nation which has fortunately arisen. It would even be singular and contrary to all precedent if the three states, not content with unprofitable competition in economic fields, did not find some pretext for war against one another, with all the destruction and mutual impoverishment which that entails. But hostile tariffs alone between North and South, East and West, would be quite enough to destroy the economic advantages of the United States.
Ninety-nine Americans in a hundred see clearly and admit that a customs barrier between New York and Pennsylvania or even Florida and California would be a fatal blunder, but they are unable to apply the same reasoning to New York and Ontario or to Texas and Sonora.

Leaving the United States out of the reckoning, a classic example can be found in the history of the German Empire, a league of great and small states, which were weak and inconsiderable while they clung to the forms of independence, but became wonderfully strong and prosperous after they had organized first a customs and then a political union. The unification of Italy is another case in point.

Under present conditions the most remote countries of the world are as close to one another and as mutually dependent as the contiguous kingdoms, grand duchies, principalities, free cities and other independent units
which united to form the Zollverein and the Empire.
They are handicapped as foolishly and as intolerably by toll gates, and they would profit in like manner by free trade and unrestricted intercourse.

Internationally tariffs not only restrict the normal growth of trade, but they breed resentment and war,
and in domestic politics they are the source of all manner of corruption. It is impossible to conceive of anything more sordid than the bargaining, logrolling, brow-beating, trading, bribery and hypocritical propaganda which precede and influence a tariff bill. The whole transaction stinks to heaven. There never was an honest tariff, and there never will be.

If tariff walls could be torn down and if commerce were left to develop naturally and freely, no attempt being made to gain an illusory advantage for one small area by isolating it from its neighbors, one half of the economic ills of the world would be cured, and one half of the causes of international friction would be removed.
It is encouraging that the Interparliamentary Union should advocate such a reform, even though its resolutions may have no more immediate effect than those of a high school debating society.

ENGLISH LABOR LEADER
CRITICIZES AMERICAN ISOLATION

(By United Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 7th.—
Arthur Purcell, member of Parliament and president of the International Federation of Trade Unions, today appealed to the American Federation of Labor to abandon its policy of labor isolation. He declared that the United States joining the world brotherhood of labor which would include Russia, is the only means of saving the white race from engulf-ment by the colored races. President Green of the American Federation of Labor, in replying pounded the table and declared that "The American Federation of Labor will never affiliate with the Russian labor movement which stands for the overthrow of government." The delegates arose in masse and applauded president Green.

Stag-Oetli, In Re the Dog.

Since Sunday forenoon at eleven o'clock much excitement has reigned and no little dissension in the usually peaceful vicinity of New Cristobal over the shooting of a dog. The dog, the property of one Charles Oetli, attacked Alice Smith a child of ten years causing her to scream and attract the attention of D. Staggs, resident of 124 C. New Cristobal. Staggs, who feared that the dog was mad, rushed for his gun while a passing coach driver rained blows with his whip upon the animal until he left the frightened child. By this time several people had gathered and the dog, according to the testimony of bystanders still gave signs of returning to the attack to such an extent that Staggs, who is from Kentucky, shot him in the leg. The owner was called and the dog was taken home for first aid.

At seven o'clock that evening Oetli returned to the home of Stagg with two representatives of the Panama Police and requested that he accompany them to the Colon court to answer to the complaint of having needlessly shot
the dog. In the company of Staggs's friends, who gathered to support him, the party proceeded to the Court room, where Judge Gustavo Arosemena was presiding. While Staggs had witnesses for his defense Oetli had none and the case was accordingly adjourned
till Monday evening.

Monday evening saw the same group considerably enlarged on its way courtwards, Oetli amply provided with witnesses and both sides reinforced by their respective lawyers, Alfredo Patiño representing Oetli and Raul Herrera, acting as counsel for Staggs.

The Judge suggested that Stagg agree to share the expenses of medical attention for the wounded canine. This Staggs objected to on the ground that the dog, which is alleged to be a good mongrel, might die and assume sudden value in the eyes of its owner, possibly as much as five thousand dollars. The case was again postponed until the following evening.

On Tuesday things reached their climax with an increased number of spectators and witnesses when the judge decided in favor of Stagg. It was generally conceded that the dog was dangerous and constituted a public nuisance. So far as is known, the case was not appealed.

INCREASED COST OF LIVING

Food costs increased according to the United States Bureau of labor statistics during the period July 15th to August 15th. Report from 17 cities gave the greatest increase to Portland Maine with 3%.
Boston, Buffalo, New York, Scranton Charleston, S. C. reported 2% increase.

JOHN K. DAXTER

A readheaded but reliable man now on vacation in the United States writes me as follows: "They are now searching luggage for booze, and finding it, breaking the bottles and slapping on a fine of $5 per quart. I don't think a line to that effect in your column would be out of place, for only the regular fellows try to get it in. Sabe?"

The foregoing is broadcasted for the information of all concerned. Since booze of good quality is offered by the bootleggers at a price which does not seem exorbitant to one accustomed to current quotations in Panama, it seems foolish for the "regular fellows" to assume the risks of rum running.

Proceeding unwillingly to the Panama Railroad station at four o'clock on Wednesday morning, I was rewarded by meeting Comrade Conde Boyle of the Spanish War Veterans, whom I had not seen since his return from leave. Brother Boyle tells me that after acquiring a tin Lizzia of ancient vintage, a blanket and a suit of overalls, he started out alone on a cruise of the hinterland, and ranged from Pennsylvania north through New York and Ontario, west as far as Iowa, where he inspected the brass tablet marking the birthplace of Col. Sam Reald, and east again to Kentucky and Virginia. On his travels he encountered many old canal diggers, especially in and around Detroit, all apparently prosperous.

In New York Comrade Boyle saw the ingenious Mr. B. Martin, who left us about a year ago for wider fields of endeavor. He is now assistant manager of a chain of hotels, or so at least he told Conde. The latter also met and had conversation with our old friend Col. B. Irwin, prince of rum hounds, who has a job as gumshoe, guard, watchman, flat foot, or something of the sort, in a New York bank. It appears that the rumor that Col. Irwin (the title, you will remember, is hereditary in his family) had been appointed to the Prohibition Enforcement Service in Texas had no foundation of truth. I did not believe them at the time. Some then told me that Bill would never go over to the enemy.

When I last visited Colon I found Mr. Max Bilgray brooding

in his new palais de danse like Marius in the ruins of Carthage. The old layout has been wrecked and the alterations are scarcely under way. Hence the dump looks like the old homestead on the day after the cyclone. Bilgray has given up hope of opening as early as November first. Since I too am having great gobs of grief with a new enterprise, I can sympathize with our Hebrew friend.

The Colon synagogue now has another regular attendant in Mr. Irving Solovey, who has recently established himself on the Gold Coast. Sol stands prepared to promote another fight as soon as he can see a dollar in it. Mr. Solovey and I resemble each other in this, that there are very few things we would not do for a dollar. We postulate of course that the dollar is honest and untainted.

When our proofreader yesterday failed to note that Mr. John Hart's reference in his advertisement to "side lines" had been set up to read "side lies" he caused us to reflect in appearance only and without the least intention on the veracity of a gentleman who is truthful to the verge of brutality. In this respect I would back John against George Washington himself.

I sincerely hope that my friends will emulate the example of the Hon. Joseph Wynne and, whether they are at home or en voyage, frequently take their pens in hand to drop me a few lines. I would like to make that "From the Mail Bag" page one of the leading features of the paper. Absolute freedom of speech will be the rule, and, apart from fouls, no punches will be barred.

The Honest Working Man, if he read yesterday's paper, may not appreciate a rather optimistic reference under the head of "Isthmian Miscellanies" to the new system of issuing commissary books at the Balboa Shops. I am aware that the H. W. M. does not regard the innovation with the same enthusiasm as the efficiency expert who devised it, but the story had news value, and we aim to print the news. If the H. W. M. has anything to say on this point, the floor is his.

Unless there is objection the meeting will now adjourn.

J. K. B.

BILGRAY'S

Since the contest closed for the naming of Bilgray's new cafe the interest has been so pronounced and the queries so numerous that it has been deemed timely to question that gentleman in order to ascertain exactly what are his plans so that the public may know what to expect in the much talked-of and much-anticipated resort. Accordingly, a representative of the Panama American called on the owner.

The entire second floor of the immense Galindo Building on the corner of tenth and Front Streets has been leased by don Max and all but a corner, which has been reserved for his personal use will be turned over to Atlantic side pleasure-seekers and epicures. A wide staircase leads to airy hall 61 by 30 ft., to be laid with the finest dancing floor that can be had. This hall opens on to a porch 11 feet wide by 188 ft. in length from which one of the loveliest views in town may be enjoyed and where a cool breeze will be found no matter how warm the day or night. A five foot platform for the musicians (Bilgray's orchestra will be picked from several of the best in the city) is to be against one wall and small tables will be placed by each of the wide arched windows with small wall fixtures just over them. The splendid long porch will provide space for the longer tables to be sheltered from the street by low green lattices. Beyond the great dance hall a smaller interior will accommodate five private supper nooks such as have helped to make the "Tropic" popular, and the last of this enormous suite will be a long banquet hall. The entire wall space is to be wainscoted in native mahogany with beaver board panels to the ceiling. The electric fixtures are to be the latest and most approved design and the furniture will all be in the popular native caoba. "Bilgray's" will be stenciled or embroidered on everything.

In spite of the elaborate decorations the thing which holds the strongest appeal is perhaps the balcony from where one may look in one direction to the Porto Bello Hills and in the other enjoy a panorama sweeping from the row of great docks at Cristobal to the far entrance of the breakwater. Here projecting awnings will shield patrons from the glare of the afternoon sun and growing shrubs will add to its beauty.

Says Max Bilgray: "I am risking all on this experiment, to know the people of Colon want."

Save Your Empty Packages

"THAT'S ALL"

found it for it is hard to think of the great hall other than well-filled when its attractions are added to the lure of good music and tempting food. A delicate thought lies in his decision to insist that ladies coming after six o'clock have escorts and one can hardly wait to see the place filled to its capacity of 150 couples on the floor and space left at the tables for 450 guests. His confidence in the city's future is one of the things that make him popular.

MCGROARTY'S GOOD WISHES

J. K. B.

Just for once, I'd like to mingle,
With a venture fresh and clean;
Just for once I'd like to jingle
In a harmony serene.

Just for once my grand ambition
Prompts me to compose a rhyme,
That's not open to suspicion,
Though it isn't worth a dime.

Just for once I'd like to gamble
On the honesty, sincere,
Of a man who loves to ramble,
With a vision keen and clear,

Through every fake and fallacy,
That the sycophant admires;
Through every shoddy "policy,"
That appeals to cheerful liars.

Just for once, I'd have my say—so
In the cause of truth and right,
I've invested my last peso—
My subscription's in tonight.

May your venture be a winner;
May you linger with us long;
Be you saint or be you sinner,
I am for you—for you strong.

JOHN MCGROARTY.

when he was here in January 1924 with the Sam Gompers Committee. Since that time he has been elected President of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor. President Hedrick has carried his union card since 1889, at which time he finished his apprenticeship, and he has been president of the organization since 1910. The Brotherhood of Painters have a membership of about 107,000, gained membership during two years by approximately 10,000 members.

LABOR GAINS MEMBERS

Report of Executive committee to the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session at Atlantic City gives the membership as 2,878,297. This is the membership on which affiliated International unions have paid per capita tax. A survey of the general situation indicates that there were at least 500,000 members who on account of strikes, lockouts, or unemployment were in arrears with their dues and therefore their Internationals did not pay per capita tax on them to the Federation. It is believed that there are approximately 3,000,000 members of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. On the strength as indicated the payment of per capita tax there has been a gain during 1925 of 12,498 members.

FASCIST CREATE LABOR COURTS

(By United Press)

Rome, October 7.—The Fascist Grand Council has approved the establishment of a special portfolio, the "Ministry Presidency" making the premiership distinct from the other ministries. The Council also decided to create a full judiciary especially assigned to capital and labor differences, the decisions of which will be compulsory, applying both to the Fascist industrialists and unions. It was stated that the "Grand Council" recognize that trade unions are necessary to modern life, but that they must be controlled and incorporated into the state. Only industries of a national character are compelled to be subjected to Fascist control.

The Grand Council maintains that when decisions of the Fascist labor courts are handed down, lockouts and strikes will be prohibited and violators punished. Political strikes as well as those designed to coerce the state are also punishable.

SENATORS TAKE FIRST PENNANT GAME FROM PITTSBURGH PIRATES

JOHNSON'S MASTERLY PITCHING HOLDS PIRATES TO ONE TALLY WHILE SENATORS TAKE FOUR

By HENRY FARELL,
United Press Sporting Editor,

PITTSBURGH, October 7.—The veteran pitcher, Walter Johnson, rose to unexpected heights of greatness in the first game of the World's Series. Entering the series without much rest after the had battles of the closing games of the League pennant series, Johnson was an uncertain quantity. The batting line-up which faced him was one of the strongest which has ever entered a World's series. The first eight men on the batting order of the Pirates have been hitting over .300. In spite of all this the hero of the 1924 series pitched a wonderful game, and led the Senators to victory to the tune of 4 to 1. The combination of Johnson's perfect delivery and the air-tight defense of the Washington infield held the much-touted wrecking crew of the Pirates to a scant five hits.

Meadows, on the mound for the Pittsburgh team, was game, but was unable to stop the attack of the Senators. In the fifth inning Washington started a batting rally which cost Meadows four hits and two runs before the attack was stopped.

Pittsburgh's only score came in the fifth inning when Traynor knocked the ball into the temporary stands in the right field for a home run. In this game, however, the heavy hitters of the Pirates failed to show their famous batting punch. Johnson was cool and confident, and topped the rally with a mastery array of curves and a dash of smoking speed. Johnson's morale was never shaken and he was never really in danger. He suffered three lapses of control, but each time rallied before real danger threatened. He issued one base on balls, donated Carey a free walk to first in the opening inning by hitting him with a pitched ball, and twice pitched wild ones past Ruel.

Another upset was the failure of the famous running attack of the Pirates to develop into dangerous proportions. In spite of the fact that they have become famous during the past season for speed on the base paths, having stolen over 150 bases, they were only able to capture two from Ruel. Neither of these operated to their advantage, for they died on the sack. The brilliant fielding of the Washington infield prevented the Pirates from really developing an attack on the base lines. Working like a perfect machine it seemed almost impossible to get anything by them. Johnson fanned ten men, and his support took good care of the balance.

The Senator's attack was started in the second inning when Sam Harris knocked the first home run of the series. A batting rally in the fifth netted two more, and the game was put on ice with a final tally in the last frame. In all the 1924 champions hit Meadows for four runs and eight hits, while the Pirates were collecting one run and five hits. The Washington team made one error while Pittsburgh kept the slate clean.

The total attendance at the game was 41,723 which brought the receipts to $180,775.00. Of this amount the commission gets $27,000, the League earns $61,000, and the balance of $92,000 is divided among the players.

It seems probable that the Senators will put Ferguson on the mound for the second game, while Aldridge will probably start for the Pirates. Aldridge should be the stronger of the two, but judging by today's upsets, anything may happen.

HIGH SPOTS OF THE GAME

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7 — The game opened in the first inning with the Senators hitting at the first good ball pitched. In the second half of the first Johnson did not yet have his fast ball under complete control, and he nearly finished the game for Max Carey when he hit the Pirates center fielder on the arm in the second frame. In the Senators' half of the second Joe Harris hit a homer into the grandstands in right field. He stopped at second, but under the rule he was waived on home and credited with the run, for some spectator in the bleachers had batted the ball back onto the field. In the third inning Traynor made the most spectacular play of the game when he successfully stopped Ruel's line drive. It was the greatest fielding play ever seen in a World's Series, for Traynor was completely carried off his feet, but retained the ball. In the fourth Goslin smashed into a perfect double play. Grantham almost duplicated Traynor's effort of the preceding inning by stopping a hard hit ball in a spectacular unassisted out. His effort pulled Meadows out of what might have been a very bad hole. In the fifth the Senators' rally started. Harris, Bleuges, and Peckinpah singled, filling the bases. Meadows tightened up and struck out Ruel and Johnson, and succeeded in getting two strikes on Rice. He weakened just there and Rice singled with a clean hit over second, scoring Harris. Meadows showed grit in standing up to the grueling succession of sharp Washington hits. Traynor was first up for the Pirates in the same frame, and hit the second ball Johnson offered him into the right field stands for a home run. Score Washington 3, Pittsburgh 1. Traynor's hit would have been an easy catch for Harris if the temporary stands had not been in the way. Meadows worked more smoothly in the sixth, and made the Senators hit at the bad ones. Marberry was warming up, but Johnson was working easily and allowed no hits in the sixth or seventh. In the eighth the Pirate shortstop, Wright, caught out three Senators in succession on brilliant plays—Johnson, Wright, and Harris. In the ninth Morrison and Gooch relieved Meadows and Smith as the Pirate battery. Goslin singled to right. Judge was out, Graham to Moore, on a sacrifice which sent Goslin to second. Harris struck out. Blenge singled to center, which let Goslin into the plate. Peck was out Morrison to Grantham. McNeely went to center field for the Senators and Rice was moved to right, taking Harris' place. Carey was hit by Johnson on a pitched ball for the second time in the game. Cuyler struck out. Barnhart singled. Traynor hit an easy fly to McNeely. Wright fouled to Judge.

Throughout the entire game Johnson's assortment of smoke and curveball pitching had the Pirates manacled. Meadows was brilliant in spots, but the pace was too hot for him. He received brilliant defensive support from the Pirate infield. They played a spectacular game throughout.

This business of being a Social Editor is quite a pleasant surprise in many ways. Everyone has been so kind about supplying various news items that we feel immensely encouraged. Our heart is overflowing with gratitude and our morale has gone up a hundred per cent. Though we find we made several mistakes yesterday, we hope that the majority of our readers are still "gentle". We shall endeavor to do better as we become more experienced.

Wednesday evening, at his attractive quarters at Quarry Hgts., General Lassiter gave a large dinner in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Munro. The table was beautifully decorated with red roses, ferns, and coral vine. Those present besides the guests of honor were Admiral Day, Judge and Mrs. Martin, Miss Ione Martin, Captain Wyman, Colonel Howland, Colonel and Mrs. Miller, Colonel and Mrs. Mortimer, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. West, Mrs. Malsbury, Major Harrington, and his mother, Mrs. W. C. Harrington, Major and Mrs. Clark, Commander and Mrs. Richardson, Miss Harts, Miss Irwin, Major Pendleton and Major Eager.

A very delightful informal dinner was given by Colonel and Mrs. Morris last Tuesday evening in their quarters at Quarry Heights. Bougainvillea was used very attractively as the decoration on the table around which were seated Colonel and Mrs. Morris and their guests, Major and Mrs. Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. Givens, and Captain and Mrs. Lovell. After dinner the evening was spent playing bridge.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Robert Burgher was host at an informal party at the American Legation, in honor of his sister, Miss Laura Burgher, and Mr. John Harrison Gray, who is to take Mr. Burgher's place as Third Secretary of the Legation. In our opinion, Mr. Burgher could not have chosen a more lovely setting for his party than the roof of the American Legation, which has been so charmingly furnished by Mrs. South. The view of Panama Bay, the Fortified Islands, and Taboga, which is particularly beautiful at sunset, furnishes a pleasant atmosphere for any party.

Mr. Humber, Vice Consul of the British Legation, gave an informal tea Tuesday afternoon, in honor of the officers of H. M. S. Cape town.

Dr. Brinton L. Warner returned yesterday from the States, where he spent his vacation with Mr. Warner, at their home in Long Branch, N. J. Mrs. Warner, who remained in the States, will not return to Panama until December.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Irwin entertained a few friends at a small, informal bridge-luncheon. There were two tables of bridge, and the prizes, very pretty French powder boxes with dainty puffs, were won by Mrs. Malsbury and Mrs. Eckles. The guests were Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. S. J. Morris, Mrs. R. A. Martin, Mrs. Alfred Morris, Mrs. Malsbury and Mrs. Eckles.

Miss M. Lowly, young daughter of Dr. Lowly of New York City, chaperoned by her cousin, Miss Helen Lowly, was the guest, last night, of Miss Jeanne Meehan of Balboa. Miss Lowly and her cousin are making the trip from Santa Barbara to New York on the Manchuria.

Mrs. Searing of Fort Clayton, entertained the newcomers on the Post at an informal bridge-luncheon, Wednesday morning. The lovely embroidered linen buffet scarfs, which were the bridge prizes, were won by Mrs. Carter and Mrs. McLendon. The other players were Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. T. D. Davis, Mrs. Sidney Brown, Mrs. Bonney, and Mrs. Bachus. Mrs. Wadden and Mrs. T. S. Davis joined them for luncheon, which was served at tables prettily decorated with red roses and coral vine.

Mrs. Stanley, the guest of Captain and Mrs. Shoemaker of Fort Clayton, has been much entertained during her visit here. Tuesday evening Captain and Mrs. Wadden gave an informal dinner in her honor, and yesterday evening Captain and Mrs. T. D. Davis invited a few of their friends to a dinner in honor of Captain and Mrs. Shoemaker and their charming guest. Captain and Mrs. Davis' dinner was a "despedida" to Mrs. Stanley, as she is sailing today on the Santa Luisa. Mrs. Stanley has been in Switzerland for the past two years, and she is now on her way to Peru to join her husband Commander Stanley of the United States Navy.

Mrs. D. W. Dennis, the popular music teacher of the Atlantic side, arrived from Colon on the noon train yesterday. She is visiting Mrs. J. H. K. Humphrey for a few days.

Mrs. R. B. Walker, wife of the Forwarding and Receiving Agent of the Panama Canal, who has been in the Ancon Hospital, returned yesterday to Colon to meet her sister, Mrs. Conklin, who arrived on the New Orleans boat. Mrs. Conklin came from her home in Fort Smith, Ark., and she and Mrs. Walker are planning to make a trip down the west coast of South America during her stay here.

Lt. Kelly, General Lassiter's popular young aide, though much better today, will still be in Ancon Hospital a few days longer.

ATLANTIC SIDE

The mah-jong parties seem quite as popular as heretofore, which only goes to prove that we are addicts who are difficult to cure. Last Saturday evening when the Masons held their lodge meeting, the Stars, or quite a constellation of them, gathered at the home of Mrs. Charles Magnuson in New Cristobal, and the time helped the evening to pass very happily. The players were Mrs. Ernest Cotton, Mrs. Mettke, Mrs. W. W. Warren, Mrs. C. L. Johnson, Mrs. McCandless, Mrs. A. B. Forstrom, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. J. R. Hammond, Mrs. H. P. Bevington, and Mrs. Tom Jordan, Brass, of most tasteful design, held away for prizes: two bowls, and a pair of candlesticks. These were won by Mesdames Mettke, Cotton and Warren. A tempting supper was served after the playing.

Mrs. Anderson made gay the lower floor of the International Banking Corporation staff quarters Monday afternoon by having three tables of mah-jong and one of bridge with several tea guests. The guests were Mrs. Charles Dowman, Mrs. C. E. Landers, Miss Anita Sargent, Miss Marguerite Pendleton, Mrs. J. E. Hughes, Mrs. Vaz, Mrs. Frank Scott, Mrs. C. J. Johnson, Mrs. Louis Phillips, Miss Mavis Vaz, Mrs. Harry Amba, Mrs. W. R. Sergeant, Mrs. F. X. Lux, Mrs. Rodney Jones, Mrs. A. McKinnon, Mrs. W. W. de la Mater, Mrs. Lang Wardlaw, Mrs. J. Lundy Sykes and Mrs. D. Melendez. Rainbow party bags were won by Mesdames McKinnon, Amba and Sykes and Miss Vaz.

Dagnall, Mrs. A. B. Simsan, Mrs. C. B. Wray, Mrs. Horace Stevens, Mrs. Sterling Miller, Mrs. C. P. Fairman, and Mrs. Frank Mack.

The S. S. "Atenas" brought Mrs. Joseph Conkling, of Ft. Smith Arkansas, who will be the guest for several months of her sister Mrs. R. B. Walker and doubtless the object of many attentions in this vicinity.

The return of General and Mrs. John McAllister Palmer is pleasantly anticipated in official circles hereabouts. They are expected to arrive on the S. S. "Cristobal."

Mrs. Earle J. Carpenter of France Field, is due to arrive today on the S. S. "Santa Marta." Lt. Carpenter plans to make a short trip north by the S. S. "Ancon."

On Monday evening the Royal Palm Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star held its regular monthly business meeting at the Masonic Temple. William A. Stevenson, Chief Customs Inspector at Balboa, and a member of the National Aeronautical Committee of the American Legion, who was during the World War, Officer in charge of flying at the American Aviation Instruction Center at Tours, is exerting his influence at the American Legion Convention where he is a delegate, toward the establishment of Air Mail Service between the United States and Panama.

Mr. C. H. Calhoun, Chief of the Division of Civil Affairs, says in reference to the resolution placed before the Aeronautical Committee by W. A. Stevenson, Panama delegate to the American Legion Convention now being held in Omaha Nebraska, that inasmuch as a great deal of interest has been created in aviation activities due to the loss of the Shenandoah, the trial of Colonel Mitchell and the charges he has made against the Army and Navy the air service may exert a greater influence upon the Post Office Department than at any other time. Mr. Calhoun says further that, while he hopes the Aerial Mail Service will be extended to Panama through Central America at a very early date, it is not likely that this will be done before the service has been extended to a number of large cities in Continental United States, which are demanding this service.

About six months ago two men from the United States Post Office Department came to Panama to study the situation relative to the establishment of an Aerial Mail Service between the States and the Panama Canal. Mr. John Gill was asked to confer with these representatives and give them an approximate resume of the commercial revenue which such a service might derive from this vicinity. Mr. Gill states that upon their return the representatives turned in a very favorable report. Before leaving these experts told Mr. Gill that the United States Postal Department was considering two routes to Panama, the first through Central America and the second via Porto Rico, South to Venezuela and thence North to Panama and that in the event that either route were established the charges on first class mail would be surprisingly nominal.

Considerable interest has been aroused again inasmuch as the Germans are already taking active steps toward establishing such a service and to quote Mr. Gill, "It would seem appropriate, if any such service is to be established between the United States and Panama that the United States be the agent, either through her own Postal Service or through contract with American Companies willing to carry mail."

GOLD SHIPMENTS FROM ENGLAND TO U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7th.—Two hundred and fifteen thousand pounds of gold bullion, the first shipment to be moved from London to New York since England lifted the gold embargo of April 28th, except for small loads is being shipped to the Seaboard National Bank to bolster up the sterling exchange after the decline of the sterling to a point where the purchase dollars for exchange. It has been announced that additional shipments will be made of a million dollars on Wednesday, and two million dollars more within the week. This is expected to continue during October and November when the seasonal pressure on sterling is heaviest with bulk offerings arising from exports of cotton. Financial experts say that England has sufficient gold and credit, and that the sterling situation is well in hand.

CRISTOBAL POLICE COURT

Harry C. Lafrantz, of the 2nd Coast Artillery, was arrested Tuesday by Traffic Officer Blackburn on a double charge of reckless driving and failure to report an accident. The arrest was made on Bolivar Highway where Lafrantz upset and injured another man's car which he was driving. His enthusiasm cost him $15.00.

Abraham Brown and John Best were arrested by Policeman Edwards at Mt. Hope and tried before the Magistrate's Court on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 6, on a charge of petty larceny. They were fined twenty-five dollars each.

ADVENTUROUS STOAWAY IN CRISTOBAL

Joseph Rashal, age 23, a Russian Jew, travelling with a Palestine passport, is staying at the Salvation Army, at the expense of the Johnson line. Rashal was born in Zlatopol, of Jewish parents, who later emigrated to Palestine. He studied law in Jerusalem, and after some difficulties with the government, fled to Europe, finally becoming a student of dentistry in Berlin. Finally he stowed away in a German port on the S. S. "Axel Johnson." Four days out he came out of the hold and reported.

In a Mexican port Rashal tried to get ashore, but was held up and eventually was put on the Kronprinzessen Margarita to be returned to Europe. At Colon, for some unknown reason, and in violation of the immigration laws, he was put ashore by the Captain of the Margarita, who will have a fine chance to explain his action to the immigration authorities when his ship comes back to Cristobal. In the meantime, Rashal is being looked after by the Jewish colony in Colon.

VAGRANTS HAVE ROUGH TIME IN COLON

COLON, Oct. 7.—Acting Alcalde Luis F. Muñoz, is making good his resolution to suppress vagrancy and consequently stamp out the crime wave which hit this city in months past. This has been demonstrated by the rigid treatment meted out to recent offenders who are now being given an opportunity to devise methods of legitimate employment during a thirty days incarceration in the city jail.

On Monday morning at 11 a. m. a numerous group of idle youths were apprehended by two members of the Colon Police Corps in the baseball park enjoying a highly interesting game of crap. According to the testimony of the defendants, the real players got away but a goodly number were rounded up and sentenced to thirty days on a charge of vagrancy. They were Alberto Quiñonez, aged 24, Colombian laborer; Fernando Arispe, 19, Panamanian, unemployed; Charles Goodman, 18, Jamaican laborer; Edward Richardson, 20, Panamanian, unemployed; Adolphus Simmonds, 37, Jamaican carpenter; Steadman Cumberbatch, 34, Barbadian laborer; Clement Drayton, 35, Barbadian laborer, Manuel Betegon, 21 Panamanian laborer, Eulalia Ortega, 26, Panamanian, unemployed; Domingo Rios, 18, Panamanian, unemployed; Urbano Carnero, 24, Panamanian laborer; Marcelino Martinez, 31, Panamanian laborer.

Two others apprehended and confined under the same charge were Alfred Drummon, 21 year old Panamanian and Pedro Melendez. Each got thirty days.

Ivy Larmond a fifteen year old Jamaican domestic was accused by Encarnacion Salazar of having stolen $3.50 and found guilty. This being the third offense Ivy was sentenced to thirty days behind the bars.

Jose Valles Centeno a 26 year old Nicaraguan arrested for vagrancy was also given the same punishment.

DR. KNIGHT WRITES ON HEALTH OF CHILDREN

The October number of "Hygeia," a journal of individual and community health published by the American Medical Association in Chicago, contains an article on Canal Zone children, written by Dr. C. P. Knight, Chief Quarantine Officer. A notice sent out by "Hygeia" says:

"Zone Children Are Healthy Specimens."

"To the misinformed, the tropics are synonymous with invalidism to both adults and children. A glance at our children will convince the most dubious that they are healthy, wealthy and wise; they are being made into strong and useful citizens, states Dr. C. P. Knight, chief quarantine officer of the Canal Zone Health Department in an article on Canal Zone children in the October Hygeia, popular health magazine published by the American Medical Association.

"Canal Zone children are given every advantage conducive to healthful living. Granted that tropical climate is enervating, this handicap is offset by the extraordinary facilities for keeping physically fit. There is a sort of governmental paternalism surrounding the Zone child. This begins with the unborn and continues until the child is graduated from high school. With its prenatal supervision, infant and pre-school clinics, school hygiene, universal hospital treatment, pure water supply, perfectly screened houses, sanitary schools, swimming pools and playgrounds, all under the supervision of Uncle Sam, the Zone offers a healthful place second to none."
